

Content Outline

Kimball Slade

11/8/17

Grimm's Fairy Tales Website

I'd like for the website to be a series of pages that feel interactive as you go through them. A major part of the website could be pages that are short versions of some of their most famous stories, with imagery that is either picked from the web or self-generated that creates a sort of stage set or environment for the story to live in (I'm picturing a kind of dark forest background and foreground that's set on the screen, with the story contained in a kind of frame or something inbetween). Each story page could contain the original story and a link to the version of the story as it exists today. There would probably have to be some kind of navigation bar, although I'd prefer for it to maybe be a kind of inconspicuous drop down menu while you're in the stories.

- Homepage with menu
- Bio (sources on this page or linked to this page, but not their own page in menu, I think)
- History/rewriting and reuse of stories over time
- Story Pages (3-5?)